WestVETS Equine Hospital offers a unique rotating internship designed to transform recent graduates into confident, well-rounded equine clinicians — while retaining and building small animal skills. With strong mentorship and a supportive team approach, you'll be set up for success no matter where your veterinary career takes you.

Interns gain exposure to a wide range of cases: colic surgeries, ophthalmology, neonatology, orthopaedics, soft tissue surgeries, advanced lameness workups, and more. You'll also assist with equine reproduction, dentistry, and emergencies — plus work with a variety of patients, from Olympic athletes to beloved ponies.

Alongside equine cases, interns participate in small animal consults, including vaccinations, emergencies, and routine surgeries. The balance of large and small animal experience can be tailored to your interests, ensuring you graduate ready to excel in equine, mixed, or small animal practice.
